300 CHINESE ARE KILLED IN POOTUNG FIRE

Flames Sweep Thickly Populated Community Near Shanghai.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Many Women and Children are Among Victims.

LONDON, April 9.—Three hundred Chinese died today in a tremendous fire at Pootung, according to a dispatch from Shanghai received by the London Times.

Pootung is a thickly populated community opposite Shanghai. The fire was well under way before it was discovered. Its cause is not yet known.

Among the victims were many women and children.

SOUTHERN STRIKE SITUATION MORE SERIOUS

Kidnapings and national guardsmen are featuring the textile strike in the south which is widespread. The main picture shows the militia on duty at Charlotte, N. C., where the first strike in several years has affected 2,000 workers from the Lenoir mills. Upper left and right insets show labor organizers A. L. Hoffman and Edward McGrady, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, who were alleged to have been kidnaped by a band of men in the textile strike at Elizabeth, Tenn., while lower left is J. R. Penix, labor organizer, who was saved from being spirited away from Elizabeth by the prompt action of his sister who fired at men attempting to drag him into a car.

J. F. SPEIDEL, Councilmen Probably FARMER, FOUND SHOT TO DEATH Will Act Next Monday On 30-Day Tear Down

Hanoverton Man's Body Is Discovered in Garage.

HAD BEEN ILL

Victim, 69, Leaves Two Daughters and Two Sons.

J. Franklin Speidel, 69, wealthy Hanoverton township farmer, was found shot to death in a garage near his home, east of Hanoverton, Lincoln highway, at 5:30 o'clock this morning.

Speidel was found upon the floor of the garage with a bullet wound through his head. Near his body was an empty rifle. He had been dead about an hour when found by his son, Stephen, with whom Speidel made his home.

Speidel had been in ill health for several years. He was widely known in Hanover township where he has spent practically all his life. He was a member of the Dunganon Catholic church.

He leaves one other son, Paul of Canton; two daughters, Mrs. Laura Asher, Chicago and Esther Speidel, Canton; four brothers, Attorney E. E. and Thomas, Alliance; James, Cleveland and Dennis Speidel, Canton, and two sisters, Mrs. Carrie Hasselley, Hanoverton, and Mrs. Sarah Sell, Cleveland.

Lawmakers Await Arrival of Order Issued by State Fire Marshal Gill.

FRAME STRUCTURE 50 YEARS OLD

Bonds Expected to be Issued for Erection of Building in Broadway.

City council probably will take steps next Monday night looking toward the erection of a new downtown fire station, as a result of State Fire Marshal Ray R. Gill's order to raze the Broadway St. Clair avenue structure within 30 days, it was indicated today.

Station Once Livery Stable.

No discussion of the fire marshal's order for the "tear-down" of the 50-year-old frame building developed on the floor at the council session last night, although the matter was discussed informally at a caucus afterwards. The opinion was expressed that no action should be taken until the official order is received.

Gill, in a telegram to Service-Safety Director John W. Moore, said the "30-day tear-down" ruling was mailed from his office yesterday. It is expected to arrive here today. The order was issued by Gill following an inspection of the building Saturday.

Inasmuch as the voters of the city rejected a proposed $40,000 bond issue for a new fire station last November, bonds for the proposed structure, estimated to cost $50,000, must be issued inside the tax limitation.

Plan Larger Site.

The site for a new building probably will include ground now occupied by the street department's garage, adjoining the present station.

The Central station, built by Frank Dickey and John Stewart, was originally a livery and feed stable.

The city acquired the property in 1893 for $8,000, at which time the fire department was moved from the city building at Third and Market streets.

George Morley was mayor when the building was purchased. The fire department in the city hall building consisted of a hose reel which was pulled by one horse. When the uptown station was established six horses and three pieces of horse-drawn equipment were purchased.

Two horses were used on the hose wagon, two on the ladder truck and two others which were also used for street work, were hitched to the fire engine when it was needed. Two horses were added to the department in later years.

Motorized in 1914.

The paid fire department consisted of three men when the building was acquired. This force was increased to six by three men who were employed during the day and spent the night at the fire station. The regular firemen were paid $50 a month, while the night men received $19 a month.

When the city took over the property, the building was remodeled. Sleeping quarters were established on the second floor, on the Broadway side, while the St. Clair avenue half of the upper floor was used for the storage of hay, straw and grain.

The present motorized equipment was installed in 1914 when the horses were sold. The city now owns eight pieces of equipment, six of which are kept at the Central station and one each at the East End and Northside stations.

COUNCIL VOTES RAIL PROGRAM

Pennsy's Three-track Plan on Second Reading.

Ordinance granting the Pennsylvania Railroad company permission to construct a third track system through East Liverpool was passed on second reading by a vote of 5 to 2 by council last night.

The measure, which gives the railroad company permission to relocate and cross a number of street intersections with the proposed new tracks, was supported by Councilmen Altman, Ferguson, Fleming, Green and Hughes, while Members Frost and Lindell opposed it. An adjourned meeting will be held at 6:45 o'clock tonight when the measure will be considered on third reading.

In explanation of his opposition to the measure Councilman Frost today declared that "the railroad company failed to offer the city anything in return for the privileges asked."

Frost's Statement

"The company intends to increase the number of freight trains which are being operated through East Liverpool, blocking our crossings and creating fire hazards for all property south of the tracks and holding up traffic," he declared.

"In exchange the company fails to offer better passenger service or any other advantages. The company should, at its own expense, construct overhead crossings at Broadway and Mulberry street. It is useless to say that the company will contribute 65 per cent of the cost when the city can furnish 35 per cent. The state

START the working week in a thankful mood, even though call money may cost you 30 per cent before you know where you are.

Everything is going well with this fine country. Truly, "he hath not dealt so with any nation, and as for his judgments they have not known them. Praise ye the Lord."

ON THE radio, by courtesy of Mr. Hill, and of the American Tobacco company, you frequently hear the song, "I'm a Lucky Boy."

Uncle Sam might make that his national anthem.

THIS country's population is growing at the rate of $1,400,000 a year, one new American every 23 seconds. Our population has doubled since 1890.

NEW YORK CITY will have, in its metropolitan area, 30,000,000 population before 1950.

Wealth is accumulating, in a way to make Croesus feel like a gypsy. We should be grateful, and prepared to defend what we have.

IF YOU think the native born are better than others, which is not so, note that of 1,400,000 each year, 1,150,000 are born here.

Not even the Federal Reserve Board can hold back a nation such as this.

AMERICANS are beginning to own the outside world. Before the war, Britain controlled some of our railroads. Now Americans own more than fifteen billions of foreign securities. In South America before the war, American investments amounted to one hundred millions. Now they have risen to twenty-five hundred millions.

Uncle Sam is rich. When everybody owes you billions, you should invest a billion or two in national safety.

IT IS good news that more than 700 airplanes will be added to the national fleet this coming year, at a cost of $30,000,000. Money could not be better spent.

OUR Canadian friends, by the way, are included among "Americans" that know how to invest in good securities. The biggest stockholder of record in the American Telegraph and Telephone company is Sun Life Insurance company of Canada. If you do not think that is wise investing, you're mistaken.

THE Cheshire cat, in the "Alice" story, gradually disappeared, until only the smile was left. Railroad owners fear that railroad

Multi-Millionaire Sinclair Awaits His Transition From Mansion to Cigar Box Cell

Oil Magnate Faces Barred Window for 90 Days.

BY EDWARD B. LOCKETT, I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—From a 40-room house to an eight-by-ten brick cigar box with a single barred window.

That's the astonishing transition facing Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil magnate sentenced to serve 90 days in the District of Columbia jail.

All through the lower and intermed late courts his trial for contempt of the senate Teapot Dome oil investigating committee has wound its tortuous way, only to end in the supreme court with the original sentence of 90 days and $500 fine unanimously upheld.

"Just Another Prisoner."

And now, unless his famous "million dollar defense" can perform a legal miracle, the man who listened nightly to the cream of Broadway's hitting melodies and slept on down pillows will get what sleep he can on a canvas cot to the croup of "The Jailhouse Now" as rendered

Native School Puts Ban On Boy Friend

Island Femmes Resent Any Male Intruding Privacy.

You have all heard of the Isle of Man. But have you ever heard of the Isle of No-Man? Well, that isn't really an island, but such an Isle actually exists.

Miss Agatha Clarke, trained nurse and mission worker, connected with the Australian Board of Missions, recently returned to Sydney, Australia, with this amazing tale.

Hidden away on an island off the west coast of Australia is one of the most exclusive finishing schools in existence. The pupils consist entirely of native women. The inhabitants are all native women, with the exception of two or three white women mission aries. In fact, women are what there are nothing else but on this island.

Here these native girls remain for two years to complete their studies and here they live in absolute freedom from worldly contact. No man ever dares the doors of their native huts. What is more, they like it! Should a daring native Romeo attempt to swim to their shore he would be beaten off by the island amazons. Such virtuous defense of their paradise is duly credited to the women.

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

PERFECT CRIME GOES ON ROCKS

PARIS.—One more "perfect crime" has gone on the rocks and may end at the foot of the guillotine. Adolphe Steffen, young Belgian college student, had read about American train robberies in illustrated weeklies, and wanted to stage "the perfect holdup." In so doing, he killed the trainmaster, found no money and got himself arrested the following day. Having confessed his crime, he now awaits trial in Rheims.

"I wanted to commit the perfect crime," he said calmly. "I did not need the money. I could have had money from my father, who is wealthy. Well, I lost, that's all."

While touring New Zealand recently several English school boys climbed the Edmont volcano, 8,270 feet high.

Amusements

HERSHOLT WINS IN HEART APPEAL

To say that you will like "The Younger Generation," a Columbia production at the Ceramic theater, is to put it mild. It is one of those pictures that are made every once in so often which take the public by storm.

Here is a simple drama, true to life and throbbing with heart appeal. The audience is introduced to the Goldfish family when Pa is a pushcart vendor on the New York East Side and Ma is struggling to raise two children and make both ends meet. A tenement fire robs the family of a home.

We are next concerned with the Goldfish family after the children have matured. Morris is a prosperous antique and art dealer. He has moved to a luxurious apartment on Riverside Drive. The parents and his sister are unable to adjust themselves to the new conditions. They feel like prisoners and are unhappy. Birdie, the sister, revolts, marries her childhood lover and is driven from home.

Then follows a story with heart appeal. Miss Martha Franklin plays the mother of Eddie Lesser and the fire sequence shows her when the boy is small, living on the East Side, neighbor of the Goldfish family, that later mounts high on the social and financial ladder. Jean Hersholt is cast as Pa Goldfish, Rosa Rosanova delicately Mr. Goldfish and their two children are youngsters are portrayed by Edward Molnar and Virginia Marshall. Leon Ramon depicts Eddie Lesser as a child.

REGINALD DENNY SCORES AT STATE

One of the most entertaining and really funny comedies seen in many months, "Clear the Decks," Universal's latest production, starring the fascinating Reginald Denny, is being shown at the State theater.

It is a hurricane of laughs and keeps the audience in a constant state of mirth from the opening "sneeze" to the final "chaseup." If the reaction of the spectators is at all accurate as an indicator, this picture should add immensely to Mr. Denny's already overwhelming popularity.

Denny portrays the part of a young millionaire, recently returned from an extensive trip to Africa, who falls in love with a strange girl whom he sees in a dining room of an exclusive hotel. He is unable to ascertain her name but learns that she is sailing that day for an ocean voyage.

He is unable to secure passage on the same boat but comes across a friend of his who is booked to take the cruise for his health and does not want to go. Denny changes places with him and sails under his name and promises not to reveal the fraud. You can picture his consternation when he learns, on board ship, that he is supposed to be a mentally unsound invalid. The antics of the sparkling Denny in this situation and the fact that he is mistaken for a detective by two jewel thieves, who are taking the same boat, combine to furnish one of the most hilarious comedies that have appeared here in many months.

Oliver Hasbrouck is delightful as the heroine and Lucien Littlefield is a riot as the male nurse who is the bane of Denny's existence. Colette Merton and Otis Harlan offer a very realistic performance as the two crooks.

TEXAS GUINAN IN TALKING HIT

Texas Guinan is at the American theater in his first talking picture—and it is all-talking picture of life in a night club—and presenting the world's most famous night club hostess as just that! Vitaphone is heard in all sounds—and there are sounds of every sort from jazzy shrieks, groans, and caterwaulings—to the report of a gun—at which point the revelry which had been going as merry as the

OBJECT OF PITY AMONG FRIENDS

Plight of East Liverpool Woman and How She Found Relief

"Wherever I went I was an object of pity among my friends," said a well known woman of East Liverpool to an interviewer the other day. "I was so ill that I had lost all hope of ever being myself again. My skin had turned a dirty yellow, my eyes had big rings around them and every step I took seemed to take my strength. My stomach was so delicate there were times when the only thing I could retain was a raw egg. I was bilious, and I tried every kind of cathartic without permanent relief. My head felt stuffy; there were ringing noises in my ears and I had difficulty in hearing what was said to me. A bad taste in my mouth made me sure my breath was offensive, and when I exerted myself my heart thumped so I could hardly breathe. Altogether I could not have been much more wretched, and the few friends who stuck to me shook their heads whenever they discussed my case."

"Medical treatment sometimes relieved me for a while, but always seemed to lose its value after a few days. One day my sister brought home a new medicine someone had told her about. I did not want to take anything I knew nothing about, but nothing else was doing me any good, and more to please my sister than anything else I began taking it. In three days I had a better night's sleep than I had enjoyed in years. I thought that was just an accident, but I must say that by the time that bottle was gone I knew it was helping me, and I got another. Before it was finished I was getting better. My head cleared up so that I felt livelier, and my stomach digested the simple food I took. By the end of the second bottle I was actually hungry at mealtimes."

"Now you can see my skin is clear, my eyes have lost that awful tired look, and my general condition is better than it has been for many years. You asked me to tell you how I got well, and I can put the answer in two words—World's Tonic. What that wonderful medicine has done for me is so marvelous that I think it is the greatest discovery ever made for sick people."

So many other people think the same way that World's Tonic has built up a wonderful standing in East Liverpool. You will know why after you have tried it yourself. World's Tonic may be obtained of Carnahan's, also at C. M. Brannan's at Wellsville, or at any other first class drug store. (A-16)

Gas Pains Indigestion

Carnahan Drug Co. Says Pleasant to Take Elixir Must Help Poor Distressed Stomachs or Money Gladly Refunded.

You can be so distressed with gas and fullness that you think your heart is going to stop beating. Your stomach may be so distended that your breathing is short and gaspy.

You are dizzy and pray for quick relief—what is to be done? Just one tablespoonful of Dare's Mentha Pepsin and in ten minutes the gas disappears, the pressing on the heart ceases and you can breathe deep and naturally.

Oh! What blessed relief; but why not get rid of such attacks altogether? Why have chronic indigestion at all? Especially when Carnahan Drug Co., or any druggist anywhere guarantees Dare's Mentha Pepsin, a pleasant elixir, to end indigestion, or money back.—Adv.

ILLNESS OF FIVE YEARS YIELDS TO KONJOLA MEDICINE

Free From All Aches and Pains, Lady Is Jubilant
Over Famous New Compound.

MRS. CORA B. KIPP
"I want not only to thank the makers of Konjola, but I feel it my duty to let everyone know of the splendid health I have found in this master medicine," said Mrs. Cora B. Kipp, 197 Humphrey Road, Columbus.

"For five years anything I ate caused gas pains and bloating; my heart palpitated so that I was frightened. My stomach was swollen so that I could hardly remove my clothing. My blood pressure was high, I had dizzy spells, and it seemed that I could never shake off a cold, my system was so depleted."

"I read of Konjola and decided to give it a trial. Results were quick, and after a brief treatment all of my symptoms and pains disappeared. Today I feel so good that I can hardly believe I am the same person. I owe my new health to this medicine and I shall always be glad to recommend and endorse Konjola to others who are in ill health."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool at Carnahan drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—adv.

Elements of Talkies Tried Many Years Ago

Dramatic Critic Conceived
Original Idea for Picture Play.

Do you remember those old blending stereopticon slides which used to be shown at all the illustrated lectures? Can you name the first "picture play" which was produced on these slides?

Seeing the culmination of the work he pioneered 35 years ago is the experience of Dr. Alexander Black, credited with having created the first "picture play." In 1894 Dr. Black then a dramatic critic on a New York newspaper, said that there would be "talking photographic dramas thrown upon a screen. Everyone thought he was more than a little touched and greeted him with hearty laughter."

Like all men with a vivid idea and the necessary amount of determination, Dr. Black set about to prove that he was right and turned to the still camera and stereopticon slides to bring his first photoplay to the screen.

His system was to make the pictures successfully blend into one another in the dissolving stereopticon. Each picture represented a step forward in the action. Spoken accompaniment from the stage filled in the gaps of action.

The title of this first photodrama was "Miss Jerry." Blanche Bayliss played the title role. William Courtney was the hero and Ernest Hastings the villain, and "Miss Jerry" was a full evening's entertainment, in present motion picture parlance, "feature length." Its preview showing at the Carbon Studio on the night of October 9, 1894, was accompanied with elaborate musical accompaniment by John Hyatt Brewer, composer.

In the projection rooms at Paramount studios, Hollywood, Cal., the producer of the first "picture play"

flushed on a screen, saw the full development of the drama he had voiced when he witnessed an all-talking play in the making. Later he temporarily returned to his early vocation of picture making by filming various stars at the studio.

But, sad to state and to run true to form, the genial doctor, like other pioneers, has not profited by his early preference in the picture business. His preference ran to writing, which gave him plenty of personal satisfaction, but no great financial rewards.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER
—By Frederick J. Haskin—
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—An interesting discussion is going on among the educators of the country
concerning the importance of the daily newspaper in education. Sides have definitely been taken but it appears that there is more opinion ranged in favor of a well-regulated use of the newspaper than against it.
Briefly, the chief argument in favor of the newspaper
as an educational medium is that it is readily available and will be read anyway and therefore pupils should be directed in their use of it to get the best results. The chief argument against the newspaper is that it is ephemeral, often morbidly sensational and sometimes inaccurate.

Reading necessarily is the basis of education. The American school system has its genesis in an ordinance
of the Massachusetts Colony which, in 1647, established compulsory school attendance. Reading and then reciting what was learned constituted practically the whole curriculum. And it remains true that, in spite of the many adjuncts to education in the shape of manual training shops, chemical and electrical laboratories,
machine shops, and all manner of other modern additions, the basis of education is reading and reporting
back to a critical instruction what has been learned.

This being the case, the educators who favor a more intensive use of the daily newspaper in the schools,
point out that this most convenient vehicle of the printed word should be further capitalized and bent to the purposes of instruction. These educators argue that English-speaking schools especially should employ the newspaper because of its tremendous influence among the people of that tongue. One-half of the newspapers in the world are printed in the English language and one-third of them are published in the United States and Canada.

Opponents of the use of newspapers in schools urge that the daily print is often a careless and hasty production and that it is not conducive to a critical habit of mind.

In answering this it is urged by the newspapers' champions that literacy must be the first stepping-stone to education of any sort. Illiteracy still is general throughout the world. It is estimated that in the United States alone there are some 20,000,000 who can not read. They can not readily be induced to read newspapers than books to start with because newspapers are ready to hand and have an allure. Newspaper reading is likely to lead to further studies.

The discussion includes all manner of academic arguments of this sort but the proponents are inviting special attention to the more practical aspects and to the application of their theories to everyday school teaching. Thus, they say, it is important for the youth to be cognizant of what is going on in the world that he knows. History can give him background, science can forecast the future to some extent; the newspaper is the best mirror of the present. It should be the function of the teacher to show pupils how past events have a bearing on the news of the day and how present-day developments may affect the future.

The practice of newspapers to print what is known as feature material is an especially welcome one to the modern teacher. There is scarcely a paper in the country today which does not publish a considerable volume of purely educational matter in addition to the news of the hour.

Proponents of the newspaper curriculum have worked out a sort of outline to be followed in the employment of papers as aids to instruction. While there is much second and third-rate writing of English appearing everyday in all newspapers, in general, the newspaper style
is clear, simple, and straightforward, stressing brevity
of expression and conciseness of structure. Study of the method of writing itself is one use. Then, as to the subject matter, it is pointed out that every news dispatch falls into some general category and if all are classified by pupils and their relative importance weighed, the various articles can be made to reveal to the student the relation of every branch of human thought
and activity to every other branch, thus rounding out
the perceptions.

Scientific knowledge appears increasingly in the news
and reports of its progress open the door to classroom
discussions of the relation of a new development to original, basic discoveries or inventions and the potentialities of the future. Religion in some form or another is never absent from the daily prints and there always is some news in the field of art.

This modern school of teaching stresses the importance of fitting the youth for the world in which he must carve out his living. It is insisted that he is better equipped if taught the meaning, in the broadest sense,
of the daily occurrences which the newspapers report.
The educators who favor this type of instruction do not hesitate to point out that increasing use of newspapers as textbooks by pupils places upon publishers,
editors, and reporters a fresh responsibility and incentive to make their publications accurate and instructive
and not merely sensational.

Nothing is quite so important in the shopper's relations with a retail store as confidence, the major influence in any business or personal relationship for that matter. A strong note of confidence has been evident in all lines of business in East Liverpool for many months, stimulated to a marked degree by truthful advertising.
East Liverpool retailers well merit compliment upon this noticeable attention to the essentials of effective advertising and clean merchandising. This high degree of honesty in merchandise offerings can have but one result: it will sell goods and it will satisfy customers.
Exaggeration in advertising copy has long since lost its force. The progressive merchant avoids it.
Broadened study in customer psychology, increasing knowledge of sales response, have inspired East Liverpool
merchants in the adoption of clean publicity programs.
In no city is the joy done better. The community, indeed, may have confidence.

NEW YORK Day By Day
By O. O. McIntyre.
NEW YORK, April 9.—The collapse of night life along Broadway
and its "buzways" is a curious phenomenon to those who have watched the gushing cascade for years. It was not a sudden debacle, but instead a gradual drift of pleasure seekers to new amusements—new thrills.
There are still nocturnal haunts,
and the whine of jazz is almost as prevalent as ever, but it lacks the old time enthusiasm. The familiar faces are missing. Broadway after dark is not exactly Main street after curfew
but the wallop is kitted powered.
Two years ago there were a half dozen places where stay-outs gained admittance by bribing an imperious head waiter. Today it is seldom necessary to phone for an advance reservation. The clubs are as gaudy, intimate and just as wet, but the customers are coy.
One of the contributing reasons for the White Way detour was the sudden rise of peeping journalism, fostered chiefly to tabloid inquisitiveness, but countenanced to an extent by the more sedate feuilletons. Night club patronage is composed largely of philanderers.
And for those on a romp for the evening to read next day in intimate columns of gossip chatter of their didoes, it is putting it mildly, slightly disconcerting. Such items as "Joe Epps, the big rubber man, and Doty Hikique, of the Pollies, opened the 16th quart in the Club Kazoo at 6
a. m." were frequent.
There are always unholly planners,
too, who delight in clipping out such salacious paragraphs and mailing
them anonymously to innocent wives.
The philanderers of this type were
the heavy sugar boys who made it possible for hostesses to buy diamonds and limousines. Without them,
a night club expires.
So it was the keyhole exposes drove
the occasional and high spending play
boys to hide-aways where delicatious
would not be juicy tidbits for gossip mongers. The new sanctuaries are intimate and discreet, and who's who is nobody's particular business.
There were, of course, other reasons for the night club flop. It was well known, for instance, that one popular rendezvous employed no bouncers for those who went gay. Bouncers insured damage suits, so they resurrected an old expedient. If a patron grew troublesome a waiter slipped a Mickey Finn into his drink. This is a tasteful but nauseating mixture that brought on violent illness and oblivion.

The new under cover bazaars are luxurious and quiet and range eastward. They aim for ultra exclusivness. Perhaps the only music will be soft pedal on the piano by one of those pale dinner-coated boys whose rhythmic fingers play by ear. Not more than 20 are admitted and frequently prominent folk are turned away. The proprietors know the New York psychology. Those turned away vowing never to return are back within the week.
Another obstacle for the Broadway
night club was its tiresome standardization. You saw one—yes, you saw all.
The same jazz orchestras playing the same tunes with the same muted moan. There were the same dim lights and uncomfortable chairs at jammed up tables. Even the hostesses became standardized — extravagantly
dressed, glittering with jewels, husky voiced and featuring wine-red lips against a sallow background. They did not even offer youth. But stimulated youth by shouting and throwing things. They passed your table
they left no impression of an engaging personality but instead a nagging whiff of extravagant perfume. They mocked life with ribald jests at night
and spent their days in beauty parlors fighting off that terrible spectre
—old age.

"Somebody told me," writes C. F.,
"you wrote for eight years without selling a single line."
Something like that. They called it McIntyre's Folly. And you'd be surprised how many still think it is.

There is a story that Helen Morgan,
who moans all her miseries from a piano top, sits on the piano most of the time even when she is in her own apartment. There are many others
we'd like to see sitting on the piano instead of playing on it (That's not very good, but neither was "Abie's Irish Rose," and look how it took on).

YOUR HEALTH
An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.
By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.
There are almost endless problems
associated with the feeding of babies.
The best-fed youngster is lucky. If there is an abundant supply of mother's milk of good quality, the baby thrives and is well. Otherwise the household is upset.
At least once a month you read my comment that the mother's job is the hardest job in the world. It is a satisfying job, but it is none the less trying on that account.
Worry, watchful care, attention to detail, promptness and everlasting demands make the raising of the baby
an anxious and wearing period in a woman's life. But it is only by the application of all these attentions that
the infant's health can be safeguarded.
The bottle-fed infant is a special problem. It is a problem to the doctor and nurse, as well as to the mother.
Cows' milk is physically and chemically different from human milk. To make the former at all suitable for baby's digestion, it must be "modified." It must be diluted and otherwise treated to adapt it to the infant's need.
The worst of it is that, with the best of scientific effort, there are children who do not thrive on the ordinary bottle mixtures. For various reasons they cannot digest them.
Because of these experiences there has been much experimentation in recent years to find a satisfactory substitute for the usual combination.
Ways have been sought to make
cows' milk more suitable for the baby.
One method proposed is to give acid milk, sour milk. This will seem strange if you have not thought about
it. But one reason why some infants do not digest the milk as the infants is because there is a lack of acid in the stomach juices. To overcome this lack, acid is added to the milk.
If somebody besides an anxious mother should read these lines, it is well to consider the importance of acid milk in certain dyspepsias or indigestions of adults. Many persons have enjoyed great benefits from the taking of buttermilk and similar preparations.
In infant feeding several ways of acidifying the milk have been tried.
After long experimentation lactic acid
has been decided upon as most satisfactory.
What is lactic acid? It is the acid
which is found in ordinary sour milk.
But it is formed, too, in the formation of other substances, and can be made by the chemist. When separated, it is like the syrup in its nature,
but it is very bitter to the taste.
Whatever acid is recommended by
the doctor, it is added to the milk,
drop by drop. All the time the mixture is vigorously stirred to avoid the making of big curds. Any acid placed in milk will cause it to curdle and this is true of lactic acid. To prevent the formation of curds of large size
the stirring is essential.
To this mixture honey, corn syrup,
or corn sugar is added. There results
a digestible and palatable mixture.
Mind you—I am not recommending
this form of feeding for YOUR baby.
Whether this youngster requires acid
milk will be determined by your doctor. It is my desire, merely, to let you know there are advanced methods in infant feeding, methods intended to overcome fermentation and the other unpleasant effects of ordinary milk. It is not desirable to use acid milk if the usual mixtures agree.
There can be no doubt that this system of feeding will relieve the anxiety of an occasional mother. If you think you are one such mother, talk
with your doctor.

Other Editors Say
The New Secretary of State.
Henry L. Stimson takes office as secretary of state at a time when the foreign power of the United States
for good or evil is greater than that of any other nation.
He will not determine American foreign policy alone. The president, in co-operation with the senate, will do that. But the secretary will be responsible for the method of conducting foreign affairs, which in many ways is as important as policy.
Ambassador Morrow in Mexico City,
for instance, has demonstrated that a change in the method of diplomacy without basic change in policy can transform foreign suspicion into trust
and potential enemies into friends.
Stimson is recommended by such judges of character and ability as Hughes, Root, Taft and Hoover. His record shows him to be a brilliant lawyer and good administrator. He was a successful secretary of war under Taft. He forced a Nicaraguan settlement as Coolidge's special envoy. During the last year he was governor general of the Philippines.
Like other men, Colonel Stimson
has defects. His intellect is brilliant, but cold. He is self-controlled, but sometimes self-righteous. He gets things done, but he is apt to use the big stick. In the past he has been essentially a disciplinarian rather than a diplomat.
If Stimson attempts to apply to our general Latin-American, far-eastern and European problems, the method of ultimatum and dictatorship which he employed in Nicaragua, he will jeopardize the peace of the world.
It is perhaps an injustice even to suggest the possibility that Stimson
may let any of his old methods rule
his new job. Doubtless he has learned by this time his methods in Nicaragua
were resented throughout Latin-America and created a major problem in diplomacy and trade which the Hoover good-will trip has not entirely eliminated. Doubtless he will not be tempted to deal with other governments and peoples in such manner.
Americans with much less intellect than Stimson have sense enough to know that there is a great deal of distrust and hatred of the United States abroad in the world, and that peace
can be made permanently only by a diplomacy of patience, co-operation and friendliness. Our foreign problems are most difficult. Friction with a dozen nations over our tariff and prohibition laws, Chinese extra-territoriality, Russian recognition, South American trade, Caribbean protectorates, Philippine independence, foreign debts, World court, rivalry over
raw materials, markets and credits
and overshadowing all the freedom of the seas dispute and naval armament
race with Great Britain.
To handle these problems, Stimson
must be more than a good lawyer and competent executive; he must develop statesmanship of a high order.—Columbus Citizen.

Jesus Christ Light of World," Says Minister.

"Jesus Christ is the light of the world," asserted the Rev. G. Howard Rowe, Brooklyn evangelist, at the Nazarene church revival last night. His subject was "The Light of Fellowship."

Congregational singing was directed by Burt Sparks, of Seymour, Ind. Supplementing it was an orchestra, directed by Mrs. Mary Rice.

"What a Friend We Have in Jesus" was played on a hand saw by Sparks. Utilizing a guitar as accompaniment, he sang "Never Let the Devil Win."

Meetings in Columbus and Warren, Ohio, and Belmont, Long Island, N. Y., have been completed in recent weeks by the Rev. M. Rowe, who, at the conclusion of the East Liverpool engagement, will go to Toledo and Cincinnati.

Mr. Sparks will sing and give instrumental numbers at all of the services of the present campaign.

Reality in Prayer.
"Christ, the light, becomes the life of man through faith in His name by being brought into fellowship and communion with God," the Rev. Mr. Rowe said.

"There is reality in prayer, God still answers prayer today. Supplication is not of scriptural occurrence only, but is as practicable now as in the past when biblical characters made use of it.

"There are, however, in these days marked hindrances to a fellowship with God and the answering of prayers. Chief among these is worldliness of mankind. Everywhere it is a dominant reason for keeping man separated from God it ever serves to substitute the material for the needful spiritual activities and tendencies of life.

With this separation there can be no fellowship with God any more than can there be light when the moon covers the sun in eclipse.

Tonight's Sermon Topic.
"The world prevents fellowship by getting between us and God and thus there is no consequent walking in the light of His countenance."

He spoke of the privileges, the blessings and the beauty of basking in the light of God. He noted also the walking that follows in darkness by those who have not fellowship with God.

"To walk in darkness is but to invite disaster and develop what must ultimately be a lost condition of the soul," he declared. "To continue in darkness is but to make for continuation in endless darkness."

Announcement was made that the Rev. Mr. Rowe's subject tonight will be "God, a Consuming Fire."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 9.—With the exception of Third Avenue, which broke an additional six points to $29 a share, the New York City stock market showed a fairly complete recovery from yesterday's sudden decline and most traders were willing to concede that the traction shares took a moderate chance of regaining their lost ground. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit common sold in good volume around 67, down only a point from yesterday's close.

Another "bullish demonstration" in United States Steel common took place at the opening of the market, when a block of 7,500 shares of the stock sold at 187, up 1 1/4. Steel common has been the outstanding bull leader in the industrial shares this year, and the vast improvement in the steel industry has been reflected in the rising market for the important steel shares.

Coppers were again thrown on the market in the first hour on rumors of a possible shading of prices of the red metal. Anaconda sold down to 140, completing a decline of 24 points on the move, but buying demand for this and other well known copper stocks flowed in in good volume, causing good rallies from the low prices of the day.

WHERE IS MRS. GANN GOING TO SIT? WASHINGTON IN LATHER OVER ISSUE

WASHINGTON, April 9.—From the crown of Capitol Hill to the furthest reaches of Embassy Row, where the diplomats held forth, Washington was all in a lather today over the question of where Mrs. Gann is going to sit.

Is Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, half-sister of Vice President Curtis, going to sit as the second lady of the land at official functions, or is she going to be relegated to a seat below the wives of the diplomats, some of whom are pronounced brutes?

There's the question! And to anyone who doesn't think it important, let him or her consider these activities:

The diplomatic corps of Washington, comprising nearly 50 accredited representatives of kings, queens, sultans and plain presidents, held a meeting at the British embassy last night and decided to press the state department for a decision.

Such a decision already has been demanded by the vice president himself. In a public statement, the vice president expressed his dissatisfaction with a previous ruling that his half-sister and official hostess should socially rank below the wives of the diplomats.

And to make it more serious, the dragons of Capitol Hill are bestirring themselves and threatening to intervene, investigate, and, if necessary, put Mrs. Gann in the place her friends and brother claim for her by act of congress.

Rotary Rides Bus

water tank supplies water for the bathroom and kitchenette. The coach is also hot water heated, thus eliminating the gas flames which attend old style heating equipment. A steward, porter and two drivers accompany the coach. Pushed in polished walnut and deep mahogany upholstery, the interior is a model of luxury and convenience. Lockers provide ample baggage room inside the bus.

According to Harrington, the Greyhound lines are running this sleeper over their routes to determine what improvements should be made before inaugurating regular motor bus sleeping coach service. This type of service will be operated through East Liverpool which is on the main transcontinental route of the Greyhound lines, which include practically all principal cities in the United States.

Bus Travel Grows

"Through the recent merger of the Greyhound lines and the Yellowway system" said Harrington, "We are now in a position to provide motor coach service from coast to coast and border to border, reaching all principal cities on the lines of this company. The combined Greyhound and Yellowway lines expect to operate 50,000,000 miles during 1929. This service is provided by an organization of 3,000 people, and the buses are as nearly on schedule time as possible, with the same efficiency and dependability as a railroad.

"The company takes every possible precaution to insure safety. All drivers are carefully selected and trained, and must pass and pass the most rigid tests. Every coach is thoroughly inspected before being permitted to leave on a trip. Engines, brakes, wheels, tires are all gone over by a corps of expert mechanics."

Sinclair Faces Jail

another prisoner," according to W. L. Peck, jail chief. He'll have a number, somewhere near the ten thousands and mark.

And as "just another prisoner" the millionaire oil man will endure a tedious routine accorded black and white alike.

When he is committed his fingerprints will be taken, he'll be searched—and washed. Then he'll be assigned a cell, not alone, for the jail is crowded. His cell mates may be bank robbers, bootleggers, almost anything. They will be placed in a cell with two or more white male inmates of approximately his own age. That's as far as segregation goes.

Famous Horses Fare Better.
His famous race horses, Zev and others, fare better than will their master once he reaches the district jailhouse.

In jail the man used to gold will eat with a tin knife and fork, from a tin plate.

The man who used the world for a bed, will get two bunks a week—he has to take 'em.

The man who used the world for a playground and workshop will have a cell for a playground, and the big jail and its surroundings for a business establishment. He may nap during his stay. He may hoe the garden, but the grass, or wash the clothes. The jailers will decide what he must do.

The man to whom the clubs of the world swing their doors will be initiated into a new one, the "Waiting for the Evidence Mail to Bring Me Ball" club. Of course, unlike his fellow clubmen, Sinclair has ball to burn, but no chance to use it.

In sum, Harry Sinclair will be initiated into a strange world, a world in which everything will be startlingly and painfully different.

Privacy, and Plenty of It.
The millionaire prisoner will be able to buy cigarettes, candy and pastry at the jail store as do the rest of the inmates. Things other than these he cannot have. Friends cannot send him tempting caviar or other delicacies, and all his money will not buy them for him.

In one thing, however, Sinclair's new life will parallel his old. He'll have privacy, and plenty of it. As he was surrounded by an expensive array of secretaries and servants to keep visitors away in his former life, so will be surrounded by plenty of government flunkies to keep them away from his new temporary home. Twice weekly, for 15 minute periods, will be allowed to have visitors.

CALLES PLANS SONORA BATTLE

Three Armies of 25,000 Men Will Attack Rebels.

Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, commander-in-chief of the Mexican federal army, is planning to move three armies of 25,000 men in a converging movement into the state of Sonora for the final decisive battle of the revolution, according to Mexico City advices to International News Service today.

Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, commander of the federal division of the northwest, is racing at top speed after the remnants of Gen. Francisco Manzo's rebel army to Sonora.

Gen. Calles informed President Porfirio Gil from his headquarters at Mazatlan that he expected the federalists to overtake the insurgents near San Blas within 24 hours and give battle.

Gen. Calles believes that the rebels in Sonora can be cleaned up within two weeks. This would then leave only isolated bands of rebels engaged in guerrilla warfare.

Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, whose rebel army was defeated at Jimenez and again at La Reforma, proclaimed himself "provisional president of the Mexican insurgents" at Juarez. Later Gen. Escobar left for Casas Grandes, Chihuahua.

BENDER FIGHTS RURAL MINORITY

COLUMBUS, O., April 9.—(INS)—Equal representation, whereas now the rural minority is said to control the Ohio legislature, will be sought in a referendum fight by Senator George H. Bender, Cleveland, according to that member of the general assembly here today.

Plans have already been made for the circulation of petitions proposing a constitutional amendment giving the cities their fair share of representation according to population, the Cleveland solon declared.

Bender, who led the famous referendum fight on the Marshall bill which resulted in the "justices of peace" measure being defeated said that he was prepared to press the initiative amendment with even more vigor than he pressed the "JP" referendum.

Columbus Man Kills Self.
COLUMBUS, O., April 9.—(INS)—James Fowell, 66, former city fireman, shot and killed himself at his home here early today. He fired two shots, one of which penetrated his heart. His health was described as the motive by police.

SHIP WRECKED, 37 SEAMEN DIE

LONDON, April 9.—(INS)—The Russian steamship Una, has been wrecked off the Dalmatian coast in the Adriatic sea with the loss of 37 seamen, said a Venice dispatch to the Evening News this afternoon, quoting a report received in Venice from Spalato. The steamship went aground on a ledge of rocks at Pago Island.

Bank Examiner Kills Himself.
CLEVELAND, April 9.—(INS)—Relatives of Howard Snyder, 28, federal bank examiner, were at a loss today to explain his death last night. After chatting with his mother and father last night he went to a bedroom and shot himself through the heart.

RICHMOND, Va., April 9.—(INS)—The conviction of Morris Lisansky and David Lisansky in the Baltimore district court of conspiring to defraud the government out of income taxes, was affirmed today by the federal appeal court here. Each was sentenced to 18 months in the Atlanta penitentiary.

Body of Man Is Found Near River Edge Here

Had Been in Water For Probably Two Weeks; Search of Clothing Reveals Lack of Identification; Carried no Money.

WELLSVILLE, O., April 9.—Body of an unidentified man which police estimate had been in the water for probably two weeks, was recovered from the Ohio river near Nineteenth street this morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The body was seen floating by Mrs. J. C. Lyon, who lives at the foot of Nineteenth street. She called to Harry Johnson, who was on the shore nearby, and Johnson pulled it to shore.

The body was taken to the Haugh funeral home where a search of the clothing failed to reveal identification. There was no money in the man's clothing. He carried a penknife and aluminum comb.

A card case, with a meal ticket in it is the only clue authorities found with which to begin the task of establishing his identity.

The meal ticket was marked as follows: "No. 7720—Camp W. 2, Nov. 28, 1928." It was a five-dollar ticket out of which approximately 50 cents had been punched.

The man appeared to be around 45 years old. He was dressed in an overcoat and there was an article on one foot. Police believe that ordinarily he would weigh from 160 to 190 pounds.

Pittsburgh and other western Pennsylvania authorities will be notified.

SAFETY FIRST P. T. A. TOPIC

Moral and Physical Dangers Pointed Out.

"Safety First," as that admonition affects one's moral as well as physical welfare, was discussed at last night's MacDonald Parent-Teacher association.

Talks were given by W. J. Smith, mill physician, Miss Helen Stevenson, dean of girls in the high school, and Superintendent S. E. Daw.

Dangers of physical carelessness, both in the home and away from it, were stressed in Smith's address.

"A little petting at home and less necking on the highway," said Miss Stevenson, discussing moral dangers. "might relieve us of much of the current evil in that respect."

Miss Stevenson urged greater effort toward the establishment of a home on a sound economical and sentimental basis and gently chided both husbands and wives for the occasional lapses which often go toward breaking up homes.

Moral development of the child in the school and at home was Superintendent Daw's theme. He indicated that the home must bear the greater part of the youngster's education in this respect.

Under supervision of Miss Mary Helen Stewart and Miss Nellie McCombs, primary students composing the MacDonald rhythmic orchestra gave their initial "concert," the youngsters showing surprising adaptation in view of their brief acquaintance with the instruments.

Mrs. Eva Snediker presided. Parents and teachers discussed school problems in a get-together session following the program. This was in charge of Paul Skinner, MacDonald principal.

FOUR IMPORTANT STYLES IN HAIRDRESS

Lella Hyams presents an interesting group of coiffures, representing four epochal periods in history. On the left she appears as the lady who tempted Adam so many aeons ago, showing us how Eve must have worn her golden tresses. Above (center) she poses in the style of hairdress in vogue when John Hancock signed that famous document, while below (center) we see the coy little curls adopted by the best ladies of the Revolutionary period. Bringing this study to a close, Miss Hyams, as the modern Eve (right), shorn of her original knee-length glory, in one of the most popular bobs of the day.

CHESTER, W. Va., April 9.—Leroy Clemans, suspended supervisor of printing, has been indicted by the Kanawha county grand jury at Charleston on a charge of forgery in connection with the appearance of unauthorized items in the biennial budget bill passed in the recent session of the legislature.

Prosecutor Watts.

Commenting on the case after the indictment was returned, Watts said: "All evidence submitted to me by the governor and all of the evidence my associates and I could gather was submitted to the grand jury. Nothing was withheld."

Lawson made known that the printing supervisor presented a memorandum and obtained checks for six items aggregating slightly more than $1,800 a short time after a certified copy of the appropriation measure was filed in the auditor's office.

You've had him long enough -NOW I WANT HIM!

DINNER was almost over when the girl suddenly sprang to her feet, her dark eyes turned on her hostess in flaming defiance.

"I can't stand it any longer," she cried—"all this sneaking and lying and deception. Dan and I love each other. You've no right to stand between us. He's been your husband long enough. Now I want him."

The older woman, deathly pale, speechless with shock, turned to her husband.

"She's right," he said. "There's no use trying to hide it any longer. But I want you to believe, Jean, that I love you, too. You are my wife—and I love you as a tried and true companion. But I love Marise—the other way. I fought against it—how I fought you will never know. But—it was too strong for me. That's all I can say."

So this was her reward! This was her payment for sacrificing the best years of her life to her home and family. First, she had seen a beloved son, grasping blindly at the poisoned fruits of folly, wither under the blight of disgrace and shame. Then her daughter, eager for new pleasures, new sensations, was swept headlong to disaster by the modern tide of jazz.

And now her husband—her own husband—yielding to the siren lure of a love-mad young girl whose kisses must eventually prove as deadly as a viper's sting!

What had she, his wife, to offer against the lure of soft, red lips and a slim young figure—against the beauty, the seductiveness, the passion of flaming youth? Nothing—except a lifetime of sacrifice and devotion. What should she do?

This woman's story is the most sensational real-life revelation ever published in True Story Magazine. It is more than a story—it is literally an epic of family life. Critics say that if this woman's experience were published in novel form, it would be a country-wide best seller overnight.

There is no question that the author's amazing disclosures—touching as they do the very heart of the marriage problem—will create more wide-spread discussion than any story printed in recent years. Whether you have ever read True Story Magazine or not, you simply cannot afford to miss this astounding revelation entitled "Inside the Soul of One Woman." YACHTSMAN TELLS OF DAYS ADRIFT

Leland H. Ross (inset), owner of the New York Yacht club schooner "Nomad," found drifting off Cape May, N. J., was one of the four men found helpless aboard the battered vessel after a bitter battle with a stormy sea in which the captain, John Schofield, was lost overboard. They set out from Charleston, N. C., bound to New York, but ran into nine days of continuous storm, which crippled them, when the engines (shown above) failed them. Thoroughly exhausted from their battle for their lives, they drifted for six more days before being found by coast guards and being brought to Philadelphia.

Kerr Lumber company vs. David H. Turner, appeal.

City of Salem vs. A. Ward Allen, error.

CLARKSON, ROGERS SEEK NEW ROAD

Clarkson and Rogers have petitioned the county commissioners to build a two-mile road between the two vil-lages.

A number of years ago this road was slugged. Last year a mile of con-crete road was poured between Clark-son and the East Liverpool-Youngs town road, giving the two communities an outlet over an improved highway, but over a longer distance.

The commissioners have taken the request under advisement.

Johnson, manager of an A. & P. store at Wellsville, was fined $25 and costs when he entered a plea of guilty before Justice of the Peace M. K. Zimmerman at Lisbon. The charge against Johnson was filed by W. H. Barr, county sealer of weights and measures.

Owa-Ton-Na Corrects Kidney Disorders and Nervousness

Confined In Bed but This Fine Old Indian Remedy Gave Sufferer Renewed Hope.

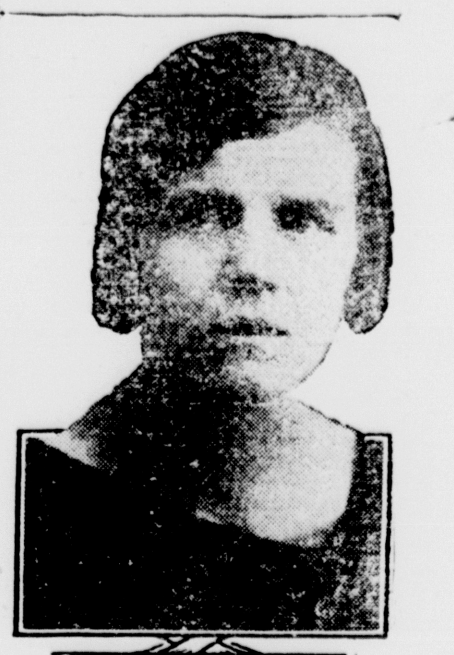

It is small wonder that the fame of Owa-Ton-Na is rapidly spreading. Case after case right here in East Liverpool report the good that can be accomplished by the use of Owa-Ton-Na. Among the most interesting of recent reports, is that of Mrs. Anna Kryk, 63 Perry Street, Salem, O., who for the past eight years has been suffering with a condition which has been steadily getting worse.

She says, "I can hardly say en-ough for the good that Owa-Ton-Na has accomplished for me even in so short a time as I have been taking it. For the last eight years, I had been steadily going down hill. My stomach has not been functioning normally and my appetite has been very poor. I always seemed to be constipated yet laxatives gave me no relief."

"Headaches and dizzy spells, time and again made life miserable. Some-times I felt as though I could not bear it. Then my kidneys started to go back on me and this worried me as I knew it was a serious condition. My back gave me so much trouble that sometimes I just had to drag myself around. My nerves were in terrible condition. Finally I was con-fined to my bed."

Though I had tried many differ-ent treatments, nothing seemed to do much good. I was confined to my bed for seven weeks before I start-ed to take Owa-Ton-Na. A neighbor told me about it and I sent right to the drug store, got a bottle and start-ed taking it. It is almost impossible to believe that in a short time, I was able to get up. I could feel this me-dicine doing its work right from the start."

"My kidneys started to act better, constipation is gone and my kidneys don't give me near as much trouble."

MRS. ANNA KRYK

Once again I feel hungry, and can en-joy my food. Owa-Ton-Na certainly is a remarkable remedy and I recom-mend it to anyone who is suffering."

A special laboratory representative is located at Carnahan's Drug Store, 114 E. 6th St. for the benefit of those who are in poor health. Why not call today and have a heart to heart talk with her about your own case? She will be glad to explain to you the merits of this fine old Indian Remedy and how best to take it for quickest results. Owa-Ton-Na is also obtainable at Carnahan's East End and Newell, W. av. Baseball

Mutinous Athletes Are Back

Repentant, They're Ready to Play for "Their Public."

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, April 9.—It is encouraging to note today that baseball seems to be itself again after some of its fretful athletes, determined to seek self-expression even if they had to climb four flights for it, were instrumental in making the 1929 training season the most turbulent in modern history. True, the boys were careful not to express themselves on their employer's time. They went in for it after business hours; too long after business hours, as a matter of fact.

In consequence, the managers of five ball clubs were constrained to make a number of overt gestures before the desired effect was achieved and house detectives could be permitted to go home for the night. Judge Fuchs is said to have been one of those who had to speak firmly

SHIRES RETURNS TO WHITE SOX

DALLAS, Texas, April 9.—Repentant, pronounced physically fit to play baseball and promising to give the White Sox his best, first baseman Art Shires, who went on the "war path" 19 days ago, was with Blackburn's squad when it departed for Memphis, Tenn., last night.

Shires admitted his wrong doing and consented to submit to a $500 fine and indefinite suspension the next time he broke rules.

to the help on several occasions, although I'm inclined to think that this must have been somewhat exaggerated. The Braves have nothing to celebrate about.

Neither have the Chicago White Sox, for that matter; yet Mr. Blackburn had to take his team captain, Mr. Shires, so severely to task that the latter had to leave town before he could get away from the harangue. The departure, of course, wasn't permanent, although Mr. Shires made it look that way. He even took his spots and came with him. However, he is back for baseball is an institution that is determined to get along without eligible ball players only when they die.

Mr. Harris, of Detroit, also had to quell some of his communists with a stern hand. Later, he declared that accident had been magnified out of all reason but that was after he and Mr. Heilmann decided to be very broadminded and forgive each other. Previously, Mr. Harris had announced that he was asking waivers on Mr. Heilmann, which in baseball is a most scurrilous procedure, but this must have been a lot of throat gargle, in as much as Mr. Heilmann again is adorning the regular line up. As I say, baseball can become very irked at the good ones but it never allows its spleen to interfere with sound judgment. Mr. Heilmann will can hit that old potato, everything else being equal. Mr. Harris naturally would prefer to have Mr. Heilmann hit it in his behalf.

The same altruistic motives prompted Mr. Bush of Pittsburgh to fine Mr. Fussell, his pitcher, one hundred dollars and Mr. Mack, of Philadelphia, to issue only a scathing rebuke to his Mr. Orvill. They could have sent both of the derelicts on their way, if it wasn't for the realization that Mr. Mr. Fussell and Mr. Orvill could win almost no ball games for them if the young men were summing in council bluffs.

However, the great uprising of 1929 happily seems to be no more, leaving marked tranquility in its wake. Things, as a matter of fact, again are pretty much as they were, except that Mr. Shires is very apologetic and Mr. Fussell is very permanently minus one hundred dollars.

BUCKEYES LOSE TO MIAMI NINE

COLUMBUS, O., April 9.—In an attempt to avenge last year's defeat at the hands of Cornell, Ohio State's baseball team settled down to stiff drill today in preparation for the game with the Ithaca club here Saturday at the Ohio stadium diamond, having failed miserably in the clash with Miami yesterday afternoon, the Buckeye association team winning, 7 to 4.

The game yesterday which was played in a drizzle of rain, was marked by the erratic playing of the Buckeyes, which paved the way for the Oxford lads' victory. Ohio State clouted out 12 hits, which denotes a lack of scoring power, compared with only six for the Big Red Nine.

Three Buckeye hurlers, Fontaine, Reed and McLaughlin, failed to stop the onslaught of Miami, while Bass, the winning pitcher, showed good form and control.

Tranquil Again

Jack Zivic Returns to Ring In Battle At Canton Friday

Jack Zivic, Pittsburgh, and his manager, Byron Fouts.

UNLIKE countless "comeback" fighters who take to the resined ring again after financial resources have been exhausted, Jack Zivic, the Pittsburgh "Bearcat" who fights Dick Ramble, coast welterweight, in Canton Friday night, is not prompted by gainful motives alone to return to his rightful place of prominence among the gladiators of the gloves.

Zivic doesn't need the money, in the sense that a "down and outer" does. He won't starve if he doesn't do another tap of work. In fact, he could live very comfortably if he decided on an existence of idleness.

"Jack Zivic is coming back, if that's what you choose to call it, because he is confident he can take any member of the present welterweight coterie all along the line with the possible exception of Jackie Fields, the present champ." So declares Byron Fouts, of East Liverpool and Midland, Zivic's present pilot. And Fouts is in a position to know, inasmuch as he and Zivic have been intimate friends for a period of 19 years or more.

Fouts, a steel plant foreman in Midland, is a "bug" on boxing, but in a practical way. He is acquainted with countless figures in the fight racket, including many of the game's leading lights. He has been with Zivic at most of the latter's important scraps in the last five years. He is thoroughly conversant with the business end of boxing, too. It is natural, then, and eminently fitting that a practical partnership should grow out of their relationship.

Too Much Fighting. This, however, occurred after Zivic had refused to renew his contract with Jimmy Bronson, New York manager. Bronson had Zivic in his cauliflower troupe for a number of years. He was one of the New York pilot's best drawing cards and money makers. Zivic fought often and anywhere, to such an extent in fact, that he came with an ace of burning himself out.

That happened last summer. He went to the Pacific coast and fought Young Corbett III. In that scrap one of his eyes was badly mutilated and the injury, in the ordinary sequence of things, should have warranted a layoff. But just a week later he was sent against Jackie Fields, the present king of the 147 pounders, bad eye and all. And on top of this, he was ordered to hurry back to Chicago for a battle with Jackie Thompson, the Windy City colored star.

But here Zivic reneged. Corbett, Jackie Fields and Jackie Thompson—all in a row—this was too much even for the "Bearcat." Zivic was pretty well worn out. He needed a rest. He knew it, and so, accepting his own advice, he temporarily hung up his mittens.

And, when the first of the year rolled around, he decided a change of pilots might not hurt, although he holds the utmost respect for his former manager, and this, coupled with the fact that Fouts has been a close friend, induced him to pair off with the "East Liverpool man."

"So," says Fouts, "you can call it comeback if you will. But the fact remains that he has never been away."

Fought All the Best Ones. "Look at this layout—Jackie Fields, Joe Dundee, Young Jack Thompson, Al Melio, Jimmy McLarnin, the former lightweight, Sergeant Sammy Baker, all pretty much of the top notch variety, aren't they? Well, I'm confident that once Zivic regains his stride and the old wallop that laid Lew Tendler low on the only occasion the Philadelphia has been stepped in his tracks, he'll be able to wade through this outfit right up to the gaffer himself. Naturally, I'd not be so rash as to expect Zivic to step right out and polish off Fields now. Fields is a lad who is at the zenith of this power—but it would be a fight."

At that, however, Zivic's ring accomplishments can't be questioned. When he was 18 years old and fighting just his seventh professional bout, he was matched with Charlie White, the Chicago left hook artist, in Motor Square Garden, Pittsburgh. He gave White a bad lacing. White at that time was heading toward New York to sign for a title fight with Benny Leonard in the lightweight division. Zivic ruined that match, White's only fight of any consequence after that was with Pal Moran in New Orleans. The Chicagoan had been so softened from Zivic's punches that Moran stopped him in the third.

When Zivic became a full fledged welterweight he met all of the best ones. The year of 1927 was his best campaign, from the standpoint of victories as well as finance. In that year he made as much, possibly more money than any man in the division, including Champion Peter Latzo. His earnings then are estimated at close to $60,000. He frequently outdrew Harry Greb at Motor Square Garden. He had a devastating punch. That year he fought, among the good ones, Joe Dundee, Tommy Milligan twice, Al Melio twice, Tommy Freeman, Eddie Roberts, Sergeant Sammy Baker, Billy Murphy and others.

He drew $10,000 purses for his fight with Tendler and his last bout with Milligan.

Not an "Old Timer" Yet. Zivic is only 26 now, and contrary to the opinion acquired by a lot of fight followers, is the younger of the two brothers. Pete, former national amateur bantam champ, is still battling the leaders in the feather class.

Outward evidence that Jack Zivic is not resuming his ring career because of a pressing need for cash is seen in the fact that he is breaking ground this spring for a new home in Pittsburgh. Besides, he has an $18,000 home in Pelham Manor, New York, which is bringing him a fairly good income from rental. And undoubtedly there is enough in his bank account to keep the wolf at a respectable distance from the Zivic thresholds.

Prior to going to Canton, the fighter, together with his wife and little daughter, stopped in East Liverpool for a visit at the Fouts' home. The daughter, it will be recalled, was born in the East Liverpool hospital something like two years ago while the Zivics were visiting here.

Matchmakers at the new Myers' bowl in Bradock, Pa., are dickering with Zivic for the opening fight there in the near future, possibly with Sammy Baker. Fouts also has dates in line in Jackson and Detroit, Mich., and Chicago.

From all indications, a delegation of 50 or more East Liverpool fans will attend the Zivic-Ramble scrap in Canton Friday night.

Phils to Try Fly Chaser In Pitcher's Box

Shotton Will Give Friberg His Chance as Chucker.

NEW YORK, April 9.—Shunted out of his regular job in the infield, Barney Friberg of the Phillies is trying to catch on as a pitcher. And the funny thing about it is that he may succeed.

Barney used to hold down third base for the Chicago Cubs, and played at the hot corner with the Phillies for a while. He lost that job when Pinkney began to make a hit with the Quakers. Barney then was tried out at shortstop, but was left out in the cold again when the Phils secured the brilliant Tommy Thevenow from St. Louis.

Utility infield duty and pinch hitting took up most of Barney's time last year until late in the season when he started pitching to the batters in practice. When the jack-of-all-trades started fooling the sluggers, Manager Bert Shotton sat up and took notice. If there is one thing the Phils have needed, do need, and will need, it is pitchers, and the bee immediately entered the Philly pilot's bonnet that he might convert Barney into a hurler.

Has Good Stuff. Friberg has a fast ball, a good curve and a first-rate knuckle ball. Shotton thinks he will be effective against big league batters, once he acquires control.

Friberg has done very little pitching during his lengthy career on the diamond.

Three years ago the St. Louis Cardinals went on a batting rampage against the Phillies and Friberg had to go to the mound because all the regular twirlers had been shelled off the landscape. Barney's first offering was given a ride to the fence by Sunny Jim Bottomley but the versatile veteran managed to stagger through the remainder of the game.

Reverses Rule.

Although many pitchers have been converted into infielders or outfielders, the vice versa stunt rarely succeeds. Bib Falk, the lackadaisical Texan now with Cleveland and formerly with the White Sox, always barked to be a twirler but never made good at it. On the other hand, Bob Smith of the Boston Braves was converted from an infielder into a crackjack pitcher. He was the best hurler on the Boston team last season.

In Training Camps

Leibold Seems Blue. MACON, Ga., April 9.—Manager Liebold is downcast today. And he has plenty of reason to be. If the Senators' pitchers are not good enough to stop class B teams, how are they going to get any place in the American association? This is the question everyone is asking. The Macon club of the South Atlantic league yesterday scored a 6 to 5 victory over the Columbus club.

Giants Bow to Nats. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 9.—The New York Giants are finding the going tough in exhibition contests with American league teams. The Washington Senators walloped them here yesterday, 8 to 3. Braxton and Hadley outpitching Hubbell and Ogden. Triples by Goslin and Tate did most of the damage.

White Hoses Trim Dallas. DALLAS, Tex., April 9.—With Art Shires among those present, the White Sox were enroute to Memphis today. The Hose departed after yesterday's game in which they defeated Dallas, 9 to 5.

Rain Halts Cards. EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 9.—The Cardinals will attempt to play the local team here today if Jape Pfluvius will permit. Yesterday's scheduled exhibition was washed out by rain.

Robins Feel Better. MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 9.—The unlucky Brooklyn Dodgers were headed for Atlanta this morning with their morale slightly improved by a 4 to 6 victory over local team yesterday. Moss and Richardson pitched for the Robins and each allowed only one hit.

Shaute is Tribe's Starter. NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—Manager Rorer Peckinpaugh, of the Cleveland Indians, announced today that Joe Shaute probably will start on the mound in the opening game against Detroit, at Cleveland, a week from today. John Milust, formerly with the Pirates, will start the second game, according to indications, and Ken Holloway, acquired from the Tigers, the third. Willis Hudlin, promising young right hander who has been pitching good ball for the Indians for two years, is not yet in the best of condition and probably will be held for relief work during the early season.

Buc Lineup Shifted. SHREVEPORT, La., April 9.—A revised Pirate order will be tried against the Detroit Tigers here today, according to Manager Donie Bush. The game yesterday was called off on account of rain.

Off to Kansas City. HOUSTON, April 9.—The Cubs leave Houston tomorrow for Kansas City where they will play three games with the Blues before embarking for home to open the pennant season. They defeated Houston's championship team again yesterday, 19 to 1.

CHANGE OF STANCE MAY HELP WALLOP

When Phil Todd (above) broke in with the Red Sox he was a skilled outfielder and a bad actor at bat but, after Joe Harris was hurt and Phil had to break in on the initial sack, his efforts to learn the new position hurt his batting. Now Phil is one of the leading first sackers of the game, but decidedly an inane outer when it comes to wallopping the horsehide. This makes Phil go to work on his hitting or lose out to Gerry Standert, the Belgian player who packs a mean and regular sock with the bat.

Mary Browne To Instruct State Co-Eds

Former Net Champ to Teach Tennis and Golf.

COLUMBUS, O., April 9.—Mary K. Browne of Cleveland, former national women's tennis champion and runner-up for the national golf title, is to arrive here Friday to begin a five-week term of tennis and golf instruction in the women's physical education department at Ohio State university, it was learned here today.

Miss Browne, who was national singles champion in 1932, 1933 and 1934, and co-champion in women's doubles for five years, will devote most of her time to teaching the fundamentals of the net game to Ohio State co-eds.

With William "Big Bill" Tilden the former champ held the mixed doubles title in 1933 and 1934. She was captain of the Wightman cup team which defended the trophy against the British in 1925 and 1926, and helped win the Wimbledon doubles crown in the same years.

Anvil Chorus Tuning Up For Uncle Robby

And All on Account of Wright-Petty Trade.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Wilbert Robinson, ponderous pilot of the Brooklyn Robins, is strangely subdued this Spring as he leads his flock northward for inspection by the Brooklyn fans. For as he nears the gates of the city where churches are erected toward the sky and pop hot-ches are thrown on the ball field, he can hear the evergrowing rumble of the anvil chorus in the distance.

The anvil chorus is that section of Brooklyn fandom which is forever waiting for a chance to pick on the Stung in Trade.

This year their ranks have been swelled because of the suspicion that Uncle Wilbert has committed a manager's unpardonable sin—getting stung in a trade. Reports from the Southland say that Glenn Wright, the shortstop obtained from Pittsburgh, may be laid up for part or all of the season because of an injured arm. Many fans were dubious about the trade last winter because it meant the loss of Jess Petty, the sterling southpaw. If Wright is incapacitated for any length of time, Uncle Wilbert is in for a merry shelling at the hands of the anvil pounders.

Only Fair Staff. If Wright is useless the club will have only a fair pitching staff and very little batting strength. The former Pittsburgh star has been counted upon to win many a game through his ability to drive in runs.

And so Uncle Wilbert is bringing his nephews home with fear and trembling, instead of with a manager's usual pride in exhibiting his new brood. In Brooklyn the anvil hangs by a thread slimmer than that which held the sword of Damocles. The pen may be mightier than the sword but the anvil hurts a darn sight worse than either of them.

BLISTER BARONS ON 62-MILE TREK

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 9.—C. C. Pyle's blistered bunions shoved off for one of their hardest days' runs this morning—A 62 mile stretch of mountainous roadway taking them out of Maryland and into Pennsylvania. Unlabeled was their objective today.

Ed Gardner, big Seattle Negro, was leading the pack in elapsed time when the hoof derby left Cumberland.

Yanks Are "Arkansas Travelers." LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 9.—The New York Yankees became Arkansas travelers today, with four more over night train rides confronting them before New York is reached on Saturday. The Tulsa team gave them a rousing send-off from Oklahoma in the shape of a 12 to 9 beating yesterday. Eight home runs were made, but none by Babe Ruth.

Wellsville Workout Scheduled

City Leaguers to Clout Ball Tomorrow Night.

MANAGER ROY NICHOLSON of the Wellsville City Industrial Baseball League club today issued the first practice call of the 1929 campaign. The Nash Motors, who last year were runners-up to the Newell Homer Laughlin team, will go to work tomorrow night at 5 o'clock at Nicholson field.

Workouts will be held at regular intervals from now on, Nicholson said today. This week's activities, he said, include chiefly hitting and fielding practice. Next week the squad will be divided for practice contests.

Pilot Nicholson has obtained the services of several pitchers other than those of his own staff who'll give his stickers something to hit at in these practice sessions.

Manager Joe Dickey of Homer Laughlin and the Newell players will hold a meeting Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in the chamber of commerce rooms.

Tomorrow night managers of the City league go into session in the chamber of commerce rooms to get things lined up for the season.

The deadline on entries arrives Saturday night and unless there are circumstances which warrant extending it, the league will go, from that time on, with five clubs.

Phils Even Series.

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—Clouting the ball hard in the late innings after the Athletics had piled up an 8 to 3 lead, the Phils won the second game of the city series, 11 to 8. The series stands one all and will be resumed today.

QUALIFIES on the first trial—and it's a regular winner in the final test! Smooth, mild, mellow and foil wrapped—five cents everywhere.

Forbidden Door

Story of Adventurous Youth, Mystery, Fortune and a Girl.

By Herman Landon

"Hold on," said Hannan to himself. "Your imagination is running wild, old boy. I'll never do—"

A knock sounded on the door. The sound seemed to lift him out of the depths of a profound and sense-dragging reverie. He looked at the door. It made him think of another door—a door of iron. A paused followed.

The stillness was so complete that he could hear the ticking of the watch in his pocket. Tick-tock. Tick-tock. It made him think of a clock that had something to do with the iron door. Tick-tock. Tick-tock.

The knock was repeated. Hannan shook himself as if to shrug off a spell. One of the hotel servants, no doubt. He dropped his grandfather's letter into his pocket, stepped across the floor, opened the door—and a staring into the living likeness of the fact his grandfather had sketched.

How Hannan Heeded the Warning

Hannan's brain made a few giddy revolutions, and then, with the mental buoyancy of a man whose life is made up of many surprises, he mastered a fair imitation of poise.

"Come in," he said pleasantly.

With many apologies his visitor walked into the room. He hoped Mr. Martenet would not resent the intrusion. He begged forgiveness for coming up without having himself announced. He had been told by the clerk downstairs that Mr. Martenet's telephone was out of order, and so he had ventured to proceed without the usual preliminaries. His name, by way, happened to be Mr. Peters—Mr. Horace Peters.

Hannan, with one hand in the pocket of his dinner jacket, where his grandfather's letter reposed, proclaimed himself happy to make Mr. Horace Peters' acquaintance. Mr. Peters was a short man in faultless evening clothes, and the long sweep of his swallow-tails made him look a little ridiculous. The wide and immaculate expanse of his shirt front seemed a trifle out of proportion. His head was somewhat larger than symmetry allowed. His nose was a thing of ruddy hues and generous dimensions.

The mouth need not have been quite so long from corner to corner. In fact, Mr. Peters seemed out of proportion in various ways, both as to physiognomy and stature. And he looked exactly like the sketch in Hannan's pocket.

A little uneasily Hannan fingered his grandfather's letter. Mr. Curry had cautioned him to burn it immediately after reading it, and for no apparent reason he was already wishing he had done so. It could be of no further use to him. Its contents, the sketch included, were indelibly etched in his memory.

He offered cigarettes, apologizing for having no cigars. Mr. Peters accepted one, declaring he never smoked anything else. Then Hannan struck a match, casually drew the letter from his pocket, formed it into a taper, ignited one end, and held it to the tip of his visitor's cigarette. Then, while covertly studying Mr. Peters' face, he lighted his own. He watched the taper turn into an elongated flake, waited until it had been reduced to char, then opened a window and flung it to the breeze.

"That's that," he said.

"Love letter?" asked Mr. Peters with an engaging smile that revealed a prominent gold tooth. He thought the younger man's act peculiar, his face showed no sign of it.

Hannan merely smiled mysteriously.

"When I was young," said Mr. Peters, "it was the custom to preserve love letters, tie a nice ribbon around them, and put them away in lavender. Times change, and manners with them." He sighed wistfully. "As old Horace, my great Latin namesake, put it: 'Laureum vascit laeque'."

Hannan looked at Horace Peters, then up at the ceiling. His eyes twinkled softly. An amusing and genial sort was Mr. Peters—but dangerous? Hardly. At least, one would never think to look at him. Was it possible that Winthrop Gaston Martenet had been mistaken for once in his estimate of character?

Mr. Peters polished his lenses. He looked about the room, and a puzzled expression came into his face as he saw the disorder. Either the expression was genuine, Hannan reflected, or else Mr. Peters was a clever actor. "Quite a rough-house, isn't it?" the younger man remarked. "Somebody sneaked in here and turned things upside down while I was having dinner."

"Dear me!" Mr. Peters looked sincerely astounded. "Burglars, of course?"

"Of course," said Hannan carelessly. "But they didn't get anything."

"That's fortunate. It shows a sad state of affairs, however, when a man is not safe in even a high-class hotel. Yes, a very sad state of affairs, Mr. Martenet. As the great Horace once remarked: 'Calorum cupata quest'."

Hannan gave him a gently mocking look.

"Oh, come now, Mr. Peters. Horace never said anything like that. It isn't even Latin."

Mr. Peters stared at him in astonishment, then grinned in a shamefaced way.

"No," he confessed, "it isn't Latin. I don't know any Latin. I just made it up. For years I've been making up sentences that sounded like Latin and springing them on my friends."

"They sound well and—er—everybody thinks I'm a learned man. You are the first one to jerk me up on it. Imagine that! I have been getting away with it for years, and then you come along and expose me."

His humiliation made Hannan laugh. He could see that his rating for intelligence had suddenly gone up in his visitor's estimation. Again he wondered about his grandfather's estimate of the man. Mr. Peters was a fraud—a rather amusing and amiable one—but it was hard to picture him as anything worse than that.

"By the way," said Mr. Peters, recovering from his embarrassment, "I saw an item in the papers this morning to the effect that you were in town. I made up my mind to call on you and see if I could be of any service to you. You are practically a stranger here, having been absent so many years, and stranger is sometimes in need of friends."

"It was good of you to look me up."

"You haven't called at the old home yet?"

"No, not yet. I shall probably make a call there to-morrow."

"Do, by all means. Mrs. Martenet, your stepmother, is a very charming lady. I know her well. I also knew your father, Maxwell Martenet. He and I became very close friends during the last few years of his life. I often heard him speak of you, sometimes regretting that he had rather neglected you."

"Oh, I'm sure he had no cause for regrets on that score."

"Yet that was the way he felt. He was a very kind man, Hannan—you don't mind if I call you Hannan?—and a man of a deep emotional nature. It was so deep, in fact, that it rarely showed on the surface. In that one particular he resembled your grandfather somewhat. There was another of nature's noblemen, Hannan, although very few people understood and appreciated him."

"You knew my grandfather?" asked Hannan, suppressing a smile. It was rather humorous to hear Winthrop Gaston Martenet lauded by the very man of whom he had cautioned his grandson to beware.

"Very well," said Peters with feeling. "Your grandfather was one of my dearest friends, although I did not always understand him. He was a true friend, a great scholar, and a very fine gentleman."

Mr. Peters appeared deeply moved. For the moment, at least, it was impossible for Hannan to question his sincerity. Winthrop Gaston Martenet and his warning faded into the background.

"You spoke of my father," he remarked. "Have you any theory with regard to his death?"

"Theory? Why theorize about it?" Puzzlement was written all over Mr. Peters' disproportionate features. "He went away and died, and that was all there was to it."

Hannan let the subject drop. Mr. Peters was like all the others. He was unable to conceive of anything dramatic or extraordinary happening to Maxwell Martenet.

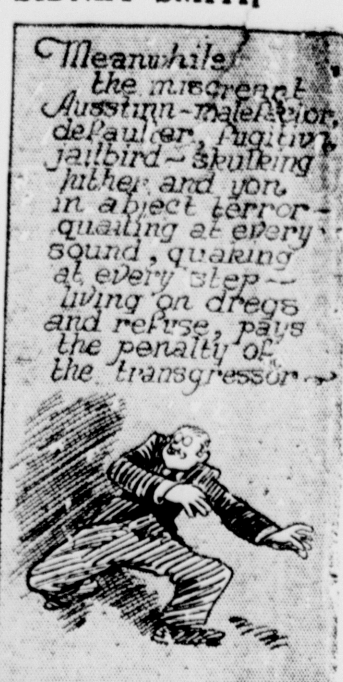

"How long do you intend to remain in town?" asked Mr. Peters after a pause.

Hannan drew a long breath. He welcomed a return to lighter topics.

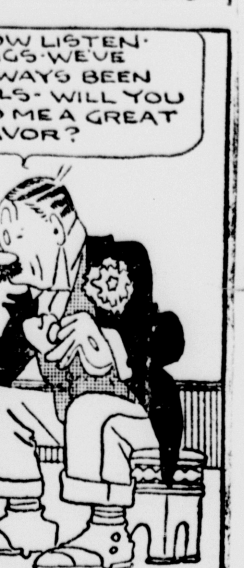

"Hard telling. Probably as long as the excitement keeps up."

MUSEUM SHOWING BIG METEORITE

CHICAGO, Ill.—A piece of the only meteorite ever recorded as having fallen in Illinois now is on display at the Field Museum of Natural History here.

For years astronomers and geologists have been watching for any reports of a meteorite falling in the state. The specimen now on display in the museum is a large fragment of a meteorite which fell near Tilden, a town 45 miles southeast of St. Louis, Mo., on July 13, 1927. The meteorite landed in three masses—one weighing 119 pounds, one 45 pounds and one 9 pounds.

PICTURE PATTERN

PERFECTLY ADORABLE.

THIS STYLE No. 2742 is a charming wrap around model in printed crepe de chine favored by the chic Parisienne, because of slender hip-line, with fluttering fullness at hem. A flattering cascading jabot frill of plain crepe is caught at neckline and waistline with ornamental buckles. Navy blue georgette crepe, black crepe satin and Royal blue canton crepe other smart combinations.

THE PATTERN is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It has an entirely new idea, which is a great help in saving time in Picture Charts which shows every step in the making. Just how the three-piece straight flounce with front edges overlapping is stitched to shaped hip yoke, and then stitched to separate slip (pattern for which is included) to affect blouse, etc.

In ordering pattern clip the design shown or order by number, and be sure to specify the size you want. Write your name and address plainly, enclosing 15 cents and mail to Fashion Department, East Liverpool Review. From 7 to 10 days are required for delivery of patterns.

NEW FASHION BOOK containing all the Spring styles is 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Seventy-five Worshipers, Including Roumanian Consul, Lined Up and Robbed.

CHICAGO, April 9.—Five shotgun

bandits who last night invaded the first Roumanian Congregational church, one of the largest synagogues in the city, and held up 75 worshipers, including the Roumanian consul, were the object of a county-wide search today.

The bandits, posing as worshippers, called Rabbi Harry Goldstein to the door, covered him with guns and forced him to lead them to the meeting, in the basement of the synagogue.

All present were forced to line up with their backs to the wall where they were robbed of cash and valuables. No accurate estimate of the loot has been made, but it will run into many thousands of dollars.

Rings, bracelets and necklaces were stripped from the women, while the men were forced to yield their watches, diamond studs and watches. Each victim, after being robbed, was forced to lie face down on the floor.

The Gold Coast will have a broadcasting station at Takoradi, West Africa.

Free transportation with guaranteed domestic employment on arrival were granted 75 women who, with 40 boys, recently left England for Australia.

You don't deliver your own mail!

It takes no fine knowledge of economics to realize that an individual transportation system for business affairs is not economical any more than it is economical for each individual to deliver his own mail, or for each individual to install and maintain his own gas plant.

The street railway of this City is a centrally operated system of mass transportation handling more than 80% of the people who travel. No man can operate an individual transportation system of his own as economically and efficiently as he can join the thousands of others who ride the street cars.

Hence, while nothing can take the place of automotive vehicles for pleasure riding, for the renewal of youth and energy in the great open spaces, still the business man is coming back to business-like, centrally operated transportation for all his city affairs—that is why there is a steady increase in the number of street car passengers handled in large cities.
